Yellow warning
Rain

Between 12:00 Sun 26 Jan 2025 and
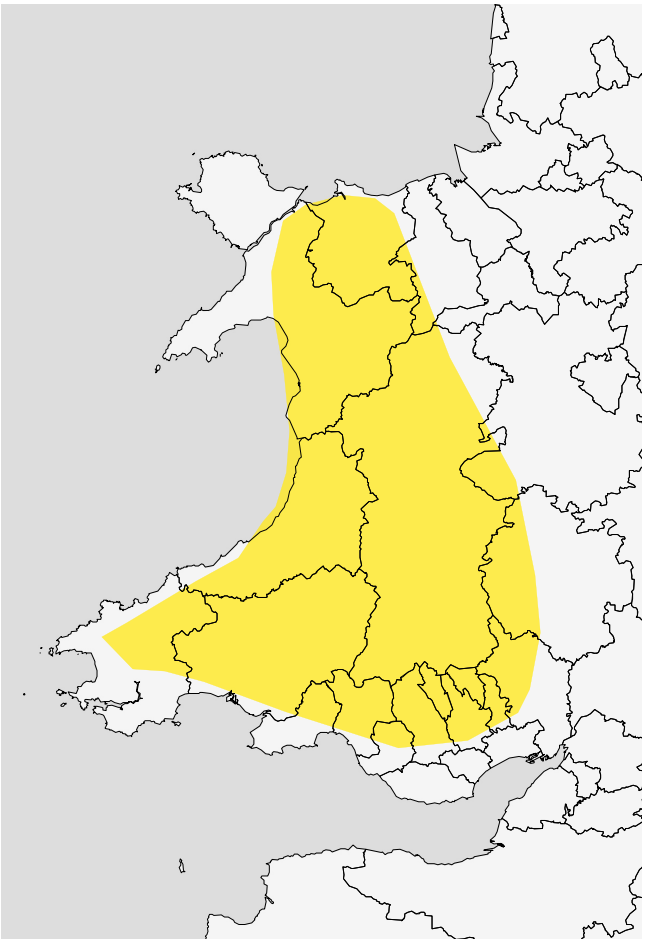
23:59 Mon 27 Jan 2025



Periods of heavy rain could eventually lead to some flooding of roads and properties.

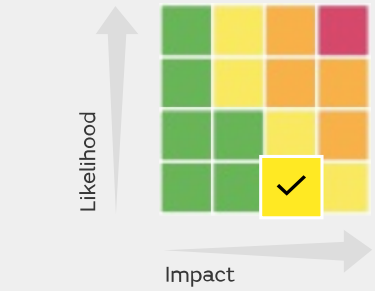
What to expect

- There is a small chance that homes and businesses could be flooded, causing damage to some buildings
- There is a small chance that some rural communities will become cut off by flooded roads
- Where flooding occurs, there is a slight chance of delays or cancellations to train and bus services
- Spray and flooding will likely lead to difficult driving conditions and possibly even some road closures

Further details

Spells of heavy rain are likely to affect parts of Wales during Sunday, followed by further showers or longer spells of rain during Monday. In addition, a separate area of quite heavy rain may also move through during the overnight period, though confidence in the extent of this remains low.

During this period, 20-40 mm of rainfall is likely to accumulate fairly widely, with isolated totals of mostly likely 50-70 mm over high ground.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts

There is a small chance that some parts of the region could receive more than this, depending on what happens with an area of heavy rainfall overnight Sunday into Monday.

What Should I Do?

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding. If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

Impact level upgraded to medium impacts from low, but with very low likelihood. Start time brought forward to 12pm Sunday.
